

Between Worlds

Between Worlds is an immersive audio project that brings together the profound experiences of parents and carers of non-speaking autistic children, interwoven with insights from my own experience and PhD research.

Through sound and storytelling, these lived experiences form a composite narrative that invites listeners to explore ways of connecting beyond words - where relationships are built through presence, empathy, and sensory experience rather than spoken language.

This project is both research and invitation - a sensory journey into different ways of knowing and relating. Listen with headphones, close your eyes, and see what you discover. I'd love to hear your reflections on my SoundCloud. Thank you for listening. Ruth
